Reflections on the 2015–16 Season
REFLECTIONS ON THE 2015–16 SEASON
From the New York Philharmonic’s Leadership

I look back on the Philharmonic’s 2015–16 season and remember countless marvelous concerts that our audiences loved, with repertoire ranging from the glory of the Baroque to the excitement of the second NY PHIL BIENNIAL. As our Music Director, Alan Gilbert has once again brought excitement and inspiration to music lovers across New York City and the world.

I also look back on the crucial, impactful developments that took place offstage. Throughout the season our collaboration with Lincoln Center laid a strong foundation for the renovation of our home. In September we together unveiled the building’s new name, David Geffen Hall, and in December we co-presented SINATRA, the stunning Gala that raised funds for this project. Offstage, we completed the team responsible for imagining a truly state-of-the-art, 21st-century concert venue: Heatherwick Studio and Diamond Schmitt Architects, a dynamic combination of visionary designers and richly experienced architects that is joining the theater design firm Fisher Dachs Associates and Akustiks. Didi and I were honored to do our part in supporting the campaigns for this renovation and the bolstering of our endowment, as well as the continuation of the Concerts in the Parks, one of my favorite Philharmonic contributions to New York City.

And the Philharmonic’s artistic future was forged through the appointment of Jaap van Zweden as our next Music Director, to begin in the 2018–19 season, after he serves for a year as our Music Director Designate. Jaap’s enthusiasm and dedication in taking this great institution into the next era promises a bright horizon indeed. I thank the selection committee, chaired by J. Christopher Flowers, for all the work that led to this unanimous choice.

Members of the Board of Directors contributed $2.5 million over and above their usual contributions to annual operations. We established the President’s Council, a new donor leadership group that will support the Philharmonic’s programs, both in New York and around the world, and will help shape the future of the Orchestra. And over the summer we welcomed Citi and Emirates Airline as new sponsors of our New York City activities.

These contributions, as well as those of all of our donors listed in this Annual Report, reflect a huge commitment to and belief in the vital importance of the New York Philharmonic. I commend each and every benefactor, and look forward to many more seasons of enjoyment and inspiration as we all join together with these astounding musicians in our love for this Orchestra.

Kindest regards,

Oscar S. Schafer
Chairman
We at the New York Philharmonic know that through collaboration we can achieve almost anything, an approach that underlay our remarkable 2015–16 season. Alan Gilbert has spearheaded an era of imagination and innovation, and has inspired the musicians of the Orchestra to give magnificent performances that uplift our audiences. The Philharmonic itself was renewed with the addition of new musicians, none more prominent than our new Concertmaster, Frank Huang. And with projects ranging from the citywide NY PHIL BIENNIAL to the intimate NY PHIL Off The Grid pop-up concerts, from the graduate-level New York Philharmonic Global Academy partnerships to the local Philharmonic Academy, Jr., collaborations with pre-college programs, it was a year of powerful contributions to the world of music.

The groundwork for both the planning and the fund-raising for the renovation of David Geffen Hall was established through a close partnership with Lincoln Center. The design team is itself a collaboration: the out-of-the-box designers Heatherwick Studio and the highly experienced Diamond Schmitt Architects. Members of the Board, the Orchestra, and the Administration formed the selection committee that chose Jaap van Zweden to be the Philharmonic’s next Music Director; I look forward to witnessing the brilliant virtuosity and passionate commitment he will bring to the Orchestra. And, as you may have noticed, last summer the Philharmonic revealed a new logo and visual identity, a process that also involved discussions among participants from across the entire organization.

We all continue our work to address the financial challenges facing today’s cultural organizations. Although we concluded the fiscal year with a deficit of $4.9 million, it was less than it could have been thanks to annual giving of almost $2 million more than in 2015. At the forefront of this generosity were our Board Members, following the extraordinary example that Oscar and Didi Schafer set with their $25 million gift last year, as we began our endowment and renovation campaigns to pursue a path toward ensuring a solid financial future.

I thank the New York Philharmonic’s dedicated Board and devoted donors for acting on their love of music and for understanding what a vital resource this Orchestra is to the city and to the world. Because of them we can continue to reimagine not only our home, but the very essence of what an orchestra can be.

With best wishes,

Matthew VanBesien
President

October 15
I look back on the 2015–16 season with pleasure and pride. There were Mahler masterpieces throughout the season, our celebration of Sibelius’s centennial, inspiring performances of Beethoven and Brahms, a thrilling Rite of Spring, a breathtaking Mozart Gran partita, and the excitement of discovery through wide-ranging premieres.

The benefits of working with artists who bring strong points of view infused the season. Daniil Trifonov brought his brilliant technique and passion to our Rachmaninoff festival, and it was a joy to work again with Inon Barnatan as our Artist-in-Association, both at home and on our visit to Michigan. It was fascinating to see how Eric Owens used his platform as The Mary and James G. Wallach Artist-in-Residence, bringing power to Wotan, wit to The Grinch, and depth to the celebration of the legacy of African American vocalists that he curated. Esa-Pekka Salonen expanded the role of The Marie-Josée Kravis Composer-in-Residence by fusing conducting with composing and curating. I greatly enjoyed conducting his LA Variations and his Dadaist Karawane; his curation of CONTACT! and his interpretation of Turangalîla-symphonie during our Messiaen Week were revelatory. The latter set a wonderful context for the performance of the Quartet for the End of Time, when I again played chamber music with Philharmonic musicians and Inon. Our season was heightened by the contributions of many other musicians I admire — venerable conductors, such as Bernard Haitink and Christoph von Dohnányi, and new faces on the podium including Jane Glover, John Storgårds, and Thomas Wilkins. The list of soloists on pages 24 and 25 is very gratifying — the pianists alone range from the elegant Maurizio Pollini to the jazz master Makoto Ozone.

Our presence around New York grew. CONTACT! traveled to Brooklyn, and the NY PHIL BIENNIAL was enriched by collaborations, such as the Lincoln Center–New York Philharmonic Opera Initiative, and by the perspectives of partners that included leading institutions of music education from across the country and from as far away as Switzerland.

Still, my most important collaborators were the astonishingly talented New York Philharmonic musicians themselves, whose ranks grew during this past year. The most visible addition was Frank Huang as Concertmaster: both within the section and in the spotlight he represented the artistry and imagination of the musicians who keep the Philharmonic’s torch shining brightly. They continually inspire me, and I am proud of their accomplishments. Thanks to them, and to the Philharmonic’s family of benefactors and collaborators, I am looking forward to a compelling 2016–17 season and beyond.

The New York Philharmonic inspires, engages, uplifts, and consoles because of the artistry and humanity of its members, whose virtuosity and musicality bring power to performances and projects. At the end of the 2015–16 season the Orchestra bade bittersweet farewells to five musicians who together had served a combined 197 years; marked a silver anniversary; and welcomed into its ranks five dynamic new members.

Two Maestros: In Memoriam

During the winter two musical titans who had presided over the Philharmonic as artistic leaders passed away.

Music Director Emeritus Kurt Masur (1927–2015) spent a life and career acting on his dedication to expressing humanism through music, perhaps most vividly in the wake of 9/11, when he led the Philharmonic in a moving performance of Brahms’s Ein deutsches Requiem. Over his 11-season tenure as Music Director, Masur hired 42 Philharmonic musicians; led the Orchestra on 17 tours around the world, traveling to 75 cities in 30 countries, including the first-ever Philharmonic concerts in mainland China; and expanded the Philharmonic’s education programs. Highlights included profound performances of oratorios by Bach and Mendelssohn, and Beethoven’s Ninth Symphony on the U.N.’s 50th anniversary and at the turn of the millennium; overseeing the four-season American Classics initiative; introducing the collaboration with Wynton Marsalis and Jazz at Lincoln Center that continues today; symphonic cycles of Brahms and Beethoven; the commissions and premieres of 43 works; the Orchestra’s return to the radio and creation of its own recording label; and 32 live concert recordings. New Yorkers still experience his humanist mark through the Annual Free Memorial Day Concert, which he introduced. From his 1981 debut until his last appearance in 2012, Maestro Masur led the Philharmonic in 909 performances. The Philharmonic dedicated the December 19, 2015, performance of Handel’s Messiah to him, and commemorated him at the 2016 Annual Free Memorial Day Concert at which Marsalis and his Jazz at Lincoln Center colleagues gave their own tribute (bottom left).

New York Philharmonic Music Director Alan Gilbert said: “Kurt Masur’s years at the New York Philharmonic represent one of its golden eras, in which music-making was infused with commitment and devotion — with the belief in the power of music to bring humanity closer together. The ethical and moral dimensions that he brought to his conducting are still palpable in the musicians’ playing, and I, along with the Philharmonic’s audiences, have much to thank him for.”

Pierre Boulez (1925–2016) was the New York Philharmonic’s bold and innovative Music Director from 1971 to 1977, as well as a trailblazing composer and thinker. Under his leadership the Orchestra explored concert formats that brought the audience into direct contact with composers and performers, including the informal Rug Concerts and the downtown Prospective Encounters. Some years after the conclusion of his tenure, in 1986, Boulez returned for a 14-event series that highlighted his work as conductor, composer, and leader of the Ensemble Intercontemporain. In 1992 he joined former Music Directors Zubin Mehta and Kurt Masur in taking turns on the Philharmonic podium to lead the Orchestra’s 150th anniversary concert; he was named an Honorary Member of the Philharmonic-Symphony Society, an honor shared by such figures as Wagner, Stravinsky, and Bernstein.

Music Director Alan Gilbert said: “Pierre Boulez was a towering and influential musical figure whose Philharmonic leadership implicitly laid down a challenge of innovation and invention that continues to inspire us to this day. To me, personally, he also was an unfailingly gracious mentor and friend, from the years when I worked with him in Cleveland and when I was appointed to the Philharmonic, to the last time I saw him in Baden-Baden on a Philharmonic tour. I will miss his musicianship, kindness, and wisdom.”

In 2015-15 the Philharmonic established the President’s Council, a new donor leadership group to support programs in New York and around the world; engage with the Philharmonic’s leadership, Board of Directors, and senior-level administrators; and help shape and support the future of the Orchestra. It was celebrated at an event hosted by Joshua Bell (seen here, second from left, with Amanda Brainard, Stephanie Sirto, and Matthew VanBesien).

Learning Communities

Philharmonic Schools

(grades 3-6 / 5,257 students in 17 schools)

New York Philharmonic Teaching Artists instruct students and school teachers in how to listen, perform, and compose using major orchestral repertoire. In-school activities [center right] prepare students to attend concerts in their schools [top right] and at David Geffen Hall. Partner elementary schools in all five boroughs embrace music as an essential element of the classroom and school community.

Very Young Composers

Sponsored by The Susan and Elihu Rose Foundation, Inc.

(grades 4-12 / 132 composers in NYC / national and global partners)

Working with Philharmonic Teaching Artists who serve as mentors and scribes, students in grades 4–8 — who represent the diversity of New York City — compose, orchestrate, and notate their own original music and hear it performed by Philharmonic musicians, often the full Orchestra, including in David Geffen Hall at Young People’s Concerts, Young People’s Concerts for Schools, and following Saturday Matinee Concerts.

Students begin the program through Philharmonic Schools, and can choose to continue through Composer’s Bridge sessions.

Numerous communities in the U.S. and abroad have established their own versions of Very Young Composers with assistance from the New York Philharmonic, and international affiliates now exist in Japan, Finland, Venezuela, the U.K., the Netherlands, South Korea, and China, among others. Students communicate with each other across these borders through “Musical Postcards,” in which Very Young Composers from different countries share stories and musical ideas.

Through a collaboration with the TOMODACHI Suntory Fukushima Mini Music Program, in August 2016 one of those communities — Fukushima, Japan, the site of the Great East Japan Earthquake of 2011 — sent eight of its Very Young Composers to New York to work directly with eight young American composers [bottom right]. Their compositions, all expressing feelings about the young composers’ homelands, were performed by Philharmonic musicians and guest artists in a free public concert.

SERVING THE COMMUNITY

Education

Through a wide array of initiatives, the New York Philharmonic creates transformative musical engagement for young people, musicians, and adult listeners. Through free performances and bold projects presented on tour, the Orchestra serves the entire city and represents it in the cultural capitals of the world.

Young People’s Concerts for All

Young People's Concerts

(ages 6-12 / audiences of 5,000 annually)

The 2015-16 series, titled Once Upon a Time, included four concerts at David Geffen Hall on Saturdays at 2:00 p.m.

- December 12: “Fables and Folktales” [center right]
- January 23: “Myths and Legends” [left]
- March 19: “Babble and Verse” [right]
- May 14: “Story and Song” [center right]

The season again featured YPC Overtures, beginning at 12:45 p.m., at which children meet Philharmonic musicians, try out orchestral instruments, and hear performances of new works by the Philharmonic’s Very Young Composers.

Very Young People’s Concerts

(ages 3-6 / audiences of 3,600 annually)

The season’s series was titled Philharmonic Playdates. These events, which take place at Merkin Concert Hall, include pre-concert musical games with Philharmonic musicians and post-performance instrument tryouts [top right].

- November 8-9: “Treble and Bass” [center right]
- February 28-29: “Forte and Piano” [right]
- April 3-4: “Allegro and Adagio” [right]

In the 2015-16 season the Philharmonic offered VYPC away from home, engaging children across the city. (audiences of 425)

- November 14: “Treble and Bass,” at Jamaica Center for Arts and Learning (in Queens), presented by Lincoln Center’s Boro-Linc
- April 2: “Allegro and Adagio,” at Hostos Center for the Arts & Culture (in the Bronx), presented by Lincoln Center’s Boro-Linc
- April 9: “Allegro and Adagio,” at The Jerome L. Greene Performance Space at WQXR, in Lower Manhattan, and co-presented with WQXR; live webcast

Young People’s Concerts for Schools

Made possible with support from the Carson Family Charitable Trust and the Mary and James G. Wallach Family Foundation

(grades 3-12 / audiences of 13,000 annually)

These concerts are held at David Geffen Hall exclusively for New York City and nearby elementary, middle, and high school students, many of them participants in Philharmonic Schools. The 2015-16 season program, titled “Jean Sibelius: Music of a Hero, Music of a Nation,” presented selections of Sibelius’s music inspired by Finnish myths and heroes, alongside premieres created by Philharmonic Very Young Composers.

- January 20, 21, and 22

Partnership with University Musical Society at the University of Michigan
In October 2015 the Philharmonic launched its five-year residency partnership with the University Musical Society (UMS) at the University of Michigan, in conjunction with the University of Michigan School of Music, Theatre & Dance (SMTD). It features the Philharmonic in performances and educational activities in Ann Arbor in 2015, 2017, and 2019.

Highlights of the first residency included three Philharmonic concerts, including a presentation of On the Waterfront (with Bernstein’s score performed live to film), as well as works ranging from Beethoven and Strauss to Magnus Lindberg and Esa-Pekka Salonen; four lectures, including the keynote address given by Alan Gilbert; a side-by-side chamber concert by SMTD and Philharmonic musicians; 13 public master classes by Philharmonic musicians and Artist-in-Association Inon Barnatan; and Alan Gilbert conducting the Philharmonic brass alongside the Michigan Marching Band at the Michigan Homecoming football game halftime show (opposite, bottom).

Philharmonic Academy Jr.
Philharmonic Academy Jr. provides training for pre-college students by Philharmonic musicians in partnership with institutions in the New York City area committed to strong orchestra programs. Partnerships continued with the Harmony Program (above, an El Sistema-inspired network of youth orchestras) and the Hoff-Barthelson Music School in Scarsdale.
The Philharmonic has acted on a commitment to its community by giving free performances since 1965, a tradition celebrated in the 2015–16 season. The Orchestra further built its connection with all New Yorkers through new initiatives, such as NY PHIL Off The Grid, in a citywide effort to inspire young music lovers.

Concerts in the Parks, Presented by Didi and Oscar Schafer
Major Corporate Support by MetLife Foundation, Citi, and Emirates Airline

More than 110,000 gathered to hear the Philharmonic in all five boroughs, June 15–22. The Orchestra included four Zarin Mehta Fellows from the Shanghai Orchestra Academy (see page 36).

The performances in Brooklyn, Queens, and the Bronx were preceded by Share the Stage, appearances by local musicians in their home boroughs, such as Afro-Puerto Rican drummers BombaYo in the Bronx (right).

The usually festive series opened on a somber but cathartic note, with Alan Gilbert conducting Barber’s Adagio for Strings in tribute to the victims of the Orlando tragedy.

25th Anniversary of the Annual Free Memorial Day Concert
Presented by the Anna-Maria and Stephen Kellen Foundation

The 25th Annual Free Memorial Day Concert at The Cathedral Church of Saint John the Divine was a tribute to Kurt Masur (1927–2015), who had inaugurated the Memorial Day tradition in 1992 as a gift to the people of New York City. Before Alan Gilbert conducted the Orchestra in Brahms’s Symphony No. 2, the late Music Director Emeritus was saluted in speeches as well as in a New Orleans–style funeral procession led by trumpet player and Jazz at Lincoln Center artistic and managing director Wynton Marsalis, whom Masur championed at the Philharmonic.

NY PHIL Off The Grid

Supported by The Wallace Foundation

New in 2015–16, this series of chamber music parties was hosted by Musicians from the New York Philharmonic in unexpected locations throughout New York City. The free events featured music, food, and cocktails inspired by Philharmonic concert programs. Off The Grid took place at Baita, Eataly’s Italian Alps pop-up restaurant (January 26); the Angel Orensanz Foundation (March 15); and Housing Works Bookstore Cafe (April 29). The Wallace Foundation’s grant to the Philharmonic also made possible two low-cost concert and after-party events, WHEN IN ROME (February 5–6) and WUNDERLAND (May 29).

Philharmonic Free Fridays

Major support provided by The Pratt Foundation

Philharmonic Free Fridays continued in 2015–16, offering 100 free tickets to 13- to 26-year-olds for each of the season’s 15 Friday evening subscription concerts. Almost 4,000 Philharmonic Free Friday tickets have been distributed to young people throughout New York since its inception in 2014–15.

Make-a-Wish

Instrument Drive

Concertmaster Frank Huang was on hand at the 2016 WQXR Instrument Drive, which collects thousands of instruments for under-served music programs in New York City.
The New York Philharmonic Global Academy offers customized collaborations with partners worldwide to provide intensive training of pre-professional instrumentalists by Philharmonic musicians, which is often complemented by performance residencies. The Global Academy Fellowship Program offers opportunities for select students to travel to New York to train and play as Zarin Mehta Fellows.

2015–16 Zarin Mehta Fellows

Music Academy of the West
This four-year partnership, launched in July 2014, continued with the second visit of Zarin Mehta Fellows, January 2–12, for an immersion in what Alan Gilbert describes as “the real life of the orchestral musician.” The nine young musicians took lessons from and shadowed Philharmonic musicians; gave a private performance alongside NYP musicians at The Morgan Library & Museum; engaged in mock auditions; joined Philharmonic Teaching Artists on visits to public schools; and performed with the New York Philharmonic in January concerts that featured works by Richard Strauss and Wagner led by Alan Gilbert.

During the summer Alan Gilbert returned to rehearse and conduct the Academy Festival Orchestra, and Philharmonic musicians served as guest faculty in Santa Barbara to train Music Academy Fellows in collaboration with Academy faculty (including leading master classes, chamber music coaching sessions, private lessons, and lectures), and to audition candidates to be 2016–17 season Zarin Mehta Fellows.

Rice University’s Shepherd School of Music
Support provided by Phoebe and Bobby Tudor
In the first year of the newest Global Academy partnership, seven students were selected from the string studios of Rice University’s Shepherd School of Music to be Zarin Mehta Fellows. They traveled to New York for a week of immersive activities, May 21–29, in which they engaged in training and performing Holst’s The Planets alongside Philharmonic musicians, conducted by David Robertson; mock auditions; individual lessons and chamber music sessions coached by Philharmonic musicians; and in the Philharmonic’s education programs. The program culminated with a private chamber music concert alongside New York Philharmonic musicians.
Innovation and Preservation
The Orchestra continued to break new ground in its commitment to use the latest technology to share its performances and projects with the world.

Social Media

The Philharmonic has created a social presence that echoes the communal quality of concertgoing; the warm voice, sense of inside access, and open and lively dialogue among fans have made it the most followed American orchestra on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram. Here are a few posts emblematic of 2015-16 season successes.

Before the face-off between the New York Mets and the Kansas City Royals, the Philharmonic answered the Kansas City Symphony’s World Series challenge (opposite, top) with four videos shared on social media, with the first three together reaching more than one million fans. The final video, of the concession — in which mezzo-soprano Joyce DiDonato, Alan Gilbert, and the Philharmonic performed “(Everything’s Up to Date in) Kansas City” (left) — reached 2.5 million users and was viewed 710,000 times on Facebook alone.

The video of the musical tribute that opened the June 15 Central Park concert, dedicated to the victims of the Orlando nightclub tragedy, with Alan Gilbert conducting Barber’s Adagio for Strings, was a source of consolation and solidarity. On Facebook it reached more than one million users and received more than 362,000 views; 5,000 reactions; 5,400 shares; and 256 comments. On YouTube it received more than 16,600 views.

In September the Philharmonic introduced On the Cover, a multiplatform series that showcases the members of the New York Philharmonic. The musician featured on the cover of Playbill is also highlighted on the Philharmonic’s social media channels that month, with postings on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, YouTube, Tumblr, Spotify, and the Philharmonic’s blog, What’s New. The 2015-16 series featured clarinet Pascual Martínez Forteza, bass Blake Hinson, Associate Principal Oboe Sherry Sylar, violin Kuan Cheng Lu, Principal Timpani Markus Rhoten, violin Quan Ge, Assistant Principal Librarian Sara Griffin, Associate Principal Horn Richard Deane, and cello Sumire Kudo.

Markus Rhoten’s video (opposite, left, and seen on Facebook, What’s New, and YouTube) reached 184,000 fans, and received 41,000 views and engagement from 3,600 followers.

During the season the Orchestra launched NY Philharmonic Backstage, a live video series featuring Philharmonic guest artists, providing a sneak peek into their process and preparation through a taste of the piece they are performing with the Philharmonic and a discussion of the music through a personal lens. The guests included Artist-in-Association, pianist Inon Barnatan; Rachmaninoff: A Philharmonic Festival soloist, pianist Daniil Trifonov; composer Andrew Norman and soloist Jeffrey Kahane; soprano Heidi Melton; violinist James Ehnes and conductor Juanjo Mena; pianist Joyce Yang; and percussionist Martin Grubinger (with this last — opposite, right — reaching almost 250,000 people, being viewed 26,000 times, and receiving nearly 3,000 engagements from fans).

For the first time, the New York Philharmonic shared events through Facebook Live, the social media platform’s new mechanism for live streaming. One success was the June 8 video of a trombone “flash mob” led by Principal Trombone Joseph Alessi on Lincoln Center’s Josie Robertson Plaza — when approximately 400 musicians played music by Bernstein and Wagner in the rain — which has received more than 160,000 views, with more than 47,000 engaging with it.

For the first time the Philharmonic created an Instagram Story — a new feature that connects images and/or video into a story — about the opening of the 2016-17 season Box Office. The nine images received a total of 23,644 views, with nearly 4,000 people engaged.

The New York Philharmonic Archives

One of the world’s great music research centers, the oldest and most comprehensive collection of any symphony orchestra contains approximately six million pages of material that date back to the Orchestra’s founding in 1842. The holdings include correspondence, business records, orchestral scores and parts, photographs, concert programs, and newspaper clippings, as well as concert and broadcast recordings dating as far back as to the 1920s. The Archives (below, with Archivist / Historian Barbara Haws, standing, and Zarin Mehta Fellows from Rice University) supports research by scholars and musicians — including the season’s Leonard Bernstein Scholar-in-Residence (see page 30) — and engages in outreach, such as presenting the Orchestra’s history in New York City schools and communities, and curating both permanent and changing exhibitions in David Geffen Hall.

2015–16 Exhibitions in the Hall and Online: (Permanent and Bruno Walter Gallery changing exhibits viewed by approx. 522,500 visitors)

Collaboration

New York University Music Experience Design Lab built on material from the New York Philharmonic Leon Levy Digital Archives to present groundbreaking technology at an Insights at the Atrium event, offered in conjunction with the Orchestra’s performances of Mahler’s Symphony No. 6 (left). The new app prototype makes possible the instantaneous comparison of performances led by Mitropoulos (1956), Bernstein (1966), Maazel (2004), and Alan Gilbert (2010), heard while viewing conducting scores marked by Mitropoulos and Bernstein.

During the residency at the University Musical Society at the University of Michigan (see page 31), Philharmonic Archivist / Historian Barbara Haws presented four talks to students and faculty in the School of Information Science, the School of Music, and the History Department, all drawing on the Leon Levy Digital Archives. The Digital Archives was also featured in the Keynote Address at the annual conference of the International Society of Music Information Retrieval.

New York Philharmonic Leon Levy Digital Archives

Since its launch in February 2011 the New York Philharmonic Leon Levy Digital Archives has been visited more than 1.1 million times, with more than 5 million pages viewed. Over the last year, the number of pages viewed has grown by 43 percent and the number of unique visitors has nearly doubled. Almost 40 percent of all visitors return, with 13 percent of the visits (about 140,000) being by those who have returned to the site between 10 and 200 times — demonstrating sustained research value.

With the material available at archives.nyphil.org, this groundbreaking project is digitizing and making freely available the Orchestra’s vast history from 1842 to 1970, and all public documents to today. With generous support from the Leon Levy Foundation, the Philharmonic has received a total of $5 million since 2005 to implement one of the world’s most ambitious and comprehensive digitization programs. In the spring of 2015 the National Endowment for the Humanities awarded the project a grant of $325,000 in recognition of the Digital Archives’ success and of the broad cultural value of the Orchestra’s history.
The Year in Pictures
A glance at some of the highlights of the New York Philharmonic’s 2015–16 season reveals the wealth of talent, the heights of inspiration, the profundity of emotion, and the deep devotion to service that marks today’s Orchestra.

THE ART OF THE SCORE: Film Week at the Philharmonic
Alec Baldwin, Artistic Advisor

The third season of the Philharmonic’s series that presents movies with their sound tracks performed live to film offered two Oscar-nominated scores. Actor and Philharmonic Board Member Alec Baldwin (opposite, inset, with his wife, Hilaria), who continued his role as Artistic Advisor, said about the selections: “We naturally choose films in which music plays a particularly powerful role, with scores that call for the virtuosity and passion of the amazing New York Philharmonic players. This season’s films fuse music with visuals in the most powerful ways: the melancholy and passion of Bernstein’s On the Waterfront (above, in the World Premiere of the live-to-film presentation) score enhances Elia Kazan’s direction and use of black-and-white film. The Godfather (opposite), in contrast, is truly Romantic in its proportions, operatic scope, the richness of the color, and the lushness of Rota’s score.” Film projects later in the season included Charlie Chaplin’s City Lights (right, made possible by Programs for Families presented by Darla and Eric Wallach).
OPENING GALA CONCERT
Music Director Alan Gilbert opened the New York Philharmonic’s 174th season by conducting an Opening Gala Concert, September 24, featuring Grieg’s Piano Concerto, with Lang Lang as soloist, and Beethoven’s Symphony No. 7. The concert (which was telecast nationally live that night on Live From Lincoln Center), was the centerpiece of a glamorous Gala presided over by (from left) Frank and Elizabeth• Newman and Margo M. and James L. • Nederlander. Generous underwriting support was provided by Kristen and Alexander• Klabin, Elizabeth• and Frank Newman, Daria  L. • and Eric J. Wallach, and BNY Mellon.

RENAMEING OUR HOME
JAAP VAN ZWEDEN APPOINTED NEXT MUSIC DIRECTOR

On January 27 the Philharmonic announced that Jaap van Zweden would become the Orchestra’s next Music Director, beginning in 2018–19, after serving as Music Director Designate in the 2017–18 season. Currently music director of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra and of the Hong Kong Philharmonic Orchestra, the Amsterdam-born conductor is acclaimed for superb performances and orchestra-building. He was appointed at age 19 as the youngest-ever concertmaster of Amsterdam’s Royal Concertgebouw Orchestra, and began his conducting career 20 years later in 1995, after he was encouraged to take up the baton by Leonard Bernstein, the Philharmonic’s Laureate Conductor, during a rehearsal of Mahler’s First Symphony. At the announcement, Philharmonic Chairman Oscar S. Schafer said: “I’d like to sincerely thank the committee and its chair, J. Christopher Flowers, which was unanimous in its choice of Mr. van Zweden, who demonstrates the highest level of music-making, befitting this excellent Orchestra, as well as an infectious enthusiasm and dedication toward taking this great institution into the next era.”

ARTISTIC PARTNERS
The Philharmonic enriches its programming and projects by welcoming into its “brain trust” today’s most interesting and talented musicians.

The 2015–16 Mary and James O. Wallach Artist-in-Residence was bass-baritone Eric Owens, who not only performed both in New York and away from home (right, singing Wagner’s Wotan at Bravo! Vail), but curated In Their Footsteps: Great African American Singers and Their Legacy (below, far right).

Inon Barnatan (opposite, bottom) entered the second of his three years as Artist-in-Association, performing concertos at home and in Ann Arbor, Michigan, and collaborating in chamber music.

Esa-Pekka Salonen brought new dimensions to the position of The Marie-Josée Kravis Composer-in-Residence, not only hearing his music performed by the Philharmonic, but also conducting (see page 71) and curating CONTACT!, the new-music series (including serving as host of a chamber event held at National Sawdust, opposite, top).
RACHMANINOFF: A PHILHARMONIC FESTIVAL

Major support provided by Laura Chang and Arnold Chavkin

A relationship that began with a debut in 2012 blossomed into partnerships both on and off stage when pianist Daniil Trifonov took center stage in the Philharmonic’s three-week festival (November 10–28), spotlighting his interpretations of Rachmaninoff’s piano works in collaborations with three conductors. He also joined the Orchestra’s musicians for a chamber concert devoted to Rachmaninoff and was appointed to the Philharmonic’s Board of Directors. Building on the belief in the rewards of collaboration, the Philharmonic invited the New York Festival of Song to contribute the opening event of the festival; From Russia to Riverside Drive: Rachmaninoff and Friends, a co-presentation with the Kaufman Music Center.
NEW YORK PHILARMONIC MUSICIANS AS SOLOISTS

Everyone who attends New York Philharmonic concerts notices the depth of talent that infuses the ranks, but that talent is particularly apparent when musicians from the Orchestra appear as soloists. During the 2015–16 season eight players stepped into the spotlight, garnering acclaim from coast to coast, in the concert hall and in the parks, and in repertoire ranging from the Baroque to today (continued next page).

AMERICAN TRAVELS

Over the season the Philharmonic performed for audiences across the nation. The October residency in Ann Arbor (see page 31) complemented concerts and education activities with an appearance by the brass section, conducted by the Music Director, in the Michigan Homecoming football game’s halftime show.

The CALIFORNIA 2016 tour — presented under the aegis of Exclusive Tour Sponsor Credit Suisse, May 3–7 — brought the Orchestra back to Costa Mesa, San Diego, and San Francisco, where Alan Gilbert conducted cornerstones of the repertoire and Principal Cello Carter Brey performed as soloist.

The season ended with the 14th annual summer residency at the Bravo! Vail festival, with six concerts, July 22–29, led by Alan Gilbert, Timothy Brock, Bramwell Tovey, and Juraj Valčuha; with Artist-in-Residence Eric Owens, Principal Trombone Joseph Alessi, pianists Yefim Bronfman and Javier Perianes, violinist Laila Josefowicz, soprano Heidi Melton, and mezzo-soprano Jennifer Johnson Cano as soloists; and with repertoire ranging from Mozart and Beethoven to Charlie Chaplin and William Bolcom.
RETURNING FRIENDS & NEW FACES

SPRING GALA: A JOHN WILLIAMS CELEBRATION
The concert featured David Newman leading music from the Oscar-winning film composer’s iconic scores from Close Encounters of the Third Kind, Jane Eyre, Memoirs of a Geisha, Harry Potter and the Sorcerer’s Stone, Jaws, Born on the Fourth of July, Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade, Schindler’s List, Star Wars Episode VII: The Force Awakens, and Star Wars, along with clips from select films. The Gala festivities were presided over by (opposite, inset) Gala Co-Chairs Beth and J. Christopher Kojima, and Leni and Peter May (right, President Matthew VanBesien and his wife, Rosanne Jowitt, and Karen T. LeFrak, the Special Events Chairman, seen with members of the 501st Legion, Star Wars fans who appeared at the cocktail reception). BNY Mellon presented the Gala (and was represented by Karen Peetz, its president, seen above with Mr. May).

WIDE-RANGING REPERTOIRE
The Philharmonic’s versatility and virtuosity infused concerts of masterpieces from every era. Repertoire ranged from the elegant glory of the Baroque in Handel’s Messiah through the orchestral power of Mahler (whose works formed a thread through the season, conducted by Music Director Alan Gilbert, Semyon Bychkov, and, opposite, top, the legendary Bernard Haitink) to the newest sounds of today, with the World Premieres of Marc Neikrug’s Canta-Concerto, Magnus Lindberg’s Vivo, Andrew Norman’s Split (a piano concerto written for Jeffrey Kahane, led by James Gaffigan, opposite, right), and Franck Krawczyk’s Après (opposite, left), the final work made possible by the 2011 Kravis Prize for New Music.

A highlight of the season was Messiaen Week, which honored the French composer through performances of his music, from the symphonic to solo works, around New York City: Composer-in-Residence Esa-Pekka Salonen conducted the full Orchestra in Turangalîla-symphonie (above) at David Geffen Hall, and curated and hosted a CONTACT! concert at National Sawdust; Philharmonic pianist Eric Huebner gave a solo recital at Good Shepherd-Faith Presbyterian Church; and Alan Gilbert played violin alongside Principal Oboe Curtis Birge, Principal Clarinet Anthony McGill, and Artist-in-Association Inon Barnatan in Messiaen’s Quartet for the End of Time at The Metropolitan Museum of Art’s Temple of Dendur (left).
CHINESE NEW YEAR CONCERT AND GALA

Starr International Foundation, Presenting Sponsor

The Orchestra welcomed the Year of the Monkey with music by Chinese composers and a work inspired by China, celebrating the cultural heritage of China and honoring the Chinese-American community, conducted by Long Yu. Maxim Vengerov performed Chen Geng and He Zhanhao’s The Butterfly Lovers Violin Concerto, and Principal Harp Nancy Allen performed the New York Premiere of Tan Dun’s Nu Shu: The Secret Songs of Women, symphony for 13 micro films, harp, and orchestra (opposite). In the afternoon the Philharmonic hosted a free outdoor event on Lincoln Center’s Josie Robertson Plaza featuring the Nai-Ni Chen Dance Company and public school students from the National Dance Institute (right). The Gala was presided over by (above) Gala Co-Chair Guoqing Chen, Gala Co-Chair Shirley Young, Matthews VanBesien, Honorary Gala Chair H.E. Consul-General Zhang Olujie, Chairman Emeritus Gary W. Parr, Honorary Gala Chair H.E. Ambassador Liu Jieyi, Gala Co-Chairs Angela Chen and Oscar L. Tang, Honorary Gala Chair Maurice R. Greenberg, Basanne Jowitt (Mr. VanBesien’s wife), Gala Co-Chair Agnes Hsu-Tang, and Special Events Chairman Karen T. LeFrak.
NY PHIL BIENNIAL

The second edition of this flagship project of the New York Philharmonic was again a wide-ranging exploration of today’s music that brings together an international roster of composers, performers, and curatorial voices for concerts presented both on the Lincoln Center campus and with partners in venues throughout the city — this time including collaborators from beyond New York City.

From May 23 through June 11, there were 28 events, performed by hundreds of musicians, reflecting the combined vision of 12 national and international partners. The diverse programs ranged from solo works and a chamber opera to large-scale symphonies by more than 100 composers, more than half of whom are American; presented some of the country’s top music schools and youth choruses; and expanded to more New York City neighborhoods.

A panoply of events and activities was created to engender an ongoing dialogue among artists, composers, and audience members. Music Director Alan Gilbert said: “This project fulfills my highest aspirations for manifesting the pioneering role the New York Philharmonic plays in the world of music.”

The partners in the 2016 NY PHIL BIENNIAL were National Sawdust; 92nd Street Y; Aspen Music Festival and School; Interlochen Center for the Arts; League of Composers / ISCM; Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts; LUCERNE FESTIVAL: MetLifeArts; New York City Electroacoustic Music Festival; Whitney Museum of American Art; WQXR’s Q2 Music; and Yale School of Music.

Major support for the NY PHIL BIENNIAL is provided by The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, The Fan Fox and Leslie R. Samuels Foundation, and The Francis Goelet Fund.

Additional funding is provided by the Howard Gilman Foundation and honey M. Kurtz.

Starr International Foundation, Presenting Sponsor
Additional support provided by Shirley Young / US-China Cultural Foundation

After four Zarin Mehta Fellows from the Shanghai Orchestra Academy traveled to New York (see page 37), the Philharmonic traveled to Shanghai for the second residency as part of the Shanghai Orchestra Academy and Residency Partnership, forged in collaboration with good friend Long Yu (right, seen with Matthew VanBesien). The performances, which opened the Music in the Summer Air (MISA) festival, included three concerts led by Alan Gilbert, featuring pianist Daniil Trifonov and violinist Gil Shaham, with repertoire ranging from Beethoven to Boulez; Assistant Conductor Joshua Debnar leading the Young People’s Concert; and Timothy Brock presiding over the live-to-film presentation of Charlie Chaplin’s City Lights (below).

In addition, the New York Philharmonic Principal Brass Quintet gave a free, public, outdoor concert on the lawn of the People’s Square (opposite, bottom). The performances were complemented by Shanghai Orchestra Academy (SOA) activities — including master classes, lessons, coachings, and a side-by-side Philharmonic rehearsal with Academy students — and a Very Young Composers workshop and performance. During the residency the first class of the SOA held its commencement ceremony (opposite, top).

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT

November 29, 2016
New York, New York

Report on the Financial Statements
We have audited the accompanying financial statements of The Philharmonic-Symphony Society of New York, Inc. (the "Society"), which comprise the statements of financial position as of August 31, 2016 and 2015, the related statements of activities and cash flows for the years then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements.

Management’s Responsibility for the Financial Statements
The Society’s management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America; this includes the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditors’ Responsibility
Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America; these standards require that we plan and perform the audits to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditors' judgments, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditors consider internal control relevant to the organization's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements, in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the organization's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Opinion
In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of The Philharmonic-Symphony Society of New York, Inc. as of August 31, 2016 and 2015, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

NOTE 1 - ORGANIZATION AND SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING PRINCIPLES

[a] Organization:

The Philharmonic-Symphony Society of New York, Inc. (the "Society") is a not-for-profit membership corporation, incorporated in New York State in 1853 and located in Lincoln Center in New York City, the purpose of which is to support a symphony orchestra, the New York Philharmonic (the "Philharmonic"), and to foster an interest in and enjoyment of music in New York City and the world.

The Society qualifies as a Section 501(c)(3) organization, exempt from federal income taxes under Section 501(a) of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code (the "Code"), as well as from New York State and New York City income taxes under comparable laws. The Society has also been classified as a publicly supported organization under Section 509(a) of the Code and qualifies for the maximum charitable contribution deduction by donors.

[b] Financial reporting:

1) Basis of accounting:

The accompanying financial statements of the Society have been prepared using the accrual basis of accounting and conform to accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, as applicable to not-for-profit organizations.

2) Use of estimates:

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets, liabilities, revenues, and expenses, as well as the disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

3) Cash and cash equivalents:

For financial-reporting purposes, the Society considers all highly liquid investments, purchased with an original maturity of three months or less, to be cash equivalents, except for cash that is held as part of the investment portfolio.

4) Investments:

Investments in money-market funds, equity securities, and fixed-income securities with readily determinable fair values are reported at their fair values in the accompanying statements of financial position, with realized and unrealized gains and losses included in the accompanying statements of activities.

The Society has investments in limited partnerships and limited liability companies which are considered to be alternative investments, for which readily determinable fair values do not exist. The underlying holdings of the Society's alternative investments consist principally of publicly traded domestic and international equity securities. The fair value of the alternative investments has been estimated based on the respective net asset value ("NAV") per share (or its equivalent unit) of each investment, as reported by the investment manager.

Because of the complex management structures and nature of the underlying investments and the inherent uncertainty of the valuation of the alternative investments, the Society's management and its various investment managers monitor their positions to reduce the risk of potential losses due to changes in fair values or the failure of counterparties to perform on a routine basis. Management believes the carrying amount of the investments in non-publicly traded securities is a reasonable estimate of their fair value. Likewise, the Society's investments in limited partnerships are valued based on the valuation policies and procedures of the general partners. The general partners perform oversight of the underlying positions, both on an investment level and from a risk perspective. The general partners are also responsible for ensuring that the investments are valued according to the policies and procedures adopted by the partnerships. The Society places reliance upon those procedures, and it records those investments at fair value as determined by the general partners. However, such estimated fair values may differ significantly from the values that would have been used had a ready market for these investments existed.

Certain of the Society's investment managers enter into derivatives contracts held or issued for trading purposes. These investments are subject to various market risks, which arise from changes in securities values and other market conditions. As part of their overall trading strategies, the investment managers may engage in the purchases and sales of index and equity options, for the purpose of generating profit and/or reducing market risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investment securities, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in the values of those securities could occur in the near term and that such changes could materially affect the amounts reported in the accompanying financial statements.

Investment transactions are recorded on a trade-date basis. Realized gains or losses on investments are determined by comparison of the average cost of acquisition to proceeds at the time of disposition. The earnings from dividends and interest are recognized when earned.

Investment expenses include the services of investment managers, consultants and custodians. The balances of investment management fees disclosed in Note 2 are those specific fees charged by the Society's various investment managers in each fiscal year; however, they do not include those fees that are embedded in various other investment accounts and transactions.

Donated securities are recorded at their estimated fair values at the date of donation. The Society's policy is to sell donated securities immediately, and, accordingly, for purposes of the accompanying statements of cash flows, donated securities and the proceeds generated from their sales are included as operating activities.

5) Split-interest agreements:

The Society's investments include deferred-giving vehicles subject to split-interest agreements. The different types of agreements currently maintained by the Society include a life interest in real estate, a beneficial interest in a lead annuity trust, and several charitable gift annuities.

• Under the life interest in real estate agreement, the Society has received a contribution of real estate whereby the donors retain the right to use the real estate until their deaths. The agreement specifies that the donor will contribute to pay the executory costs for the property, including maintenance costs, property taxes, insurance, utilities, and other similar costs. The Society has recognized the property received at fair value in the accompanying statements of financial position. The Society has also recognized an obligation reflecting the donors’ use of the asset throughout their lives that is reported as deferred revenue in the accompanying statements of financial position. The difference between the fair value of the property received and the use obligation is recognized as temporarily restricted income in the accompanying statements of activities in the year recorded.

• The Society is a named beneficiary in a charitable lead annuity trust whereby an unrelated trustee administers the underlying assets. Under the terms of the trust agreement, the Society has an irrevocable right to receive specified yearly distributions from the trust over the life of the trust. The remaining trust assets are to be distributed to the donor’s beneficiaries upon termination of the trust. The Society’s beneficial interest in the trust has been valued at fair value, based on the expected future cash flows and discounted present value at a risk-adjusted rate of 3.16% for both 2016 and 2015. The Society’s beneficial interest in the trust was approximately $9,616 and $11,372 at August 31, 2016 and 2015, respectively.

• Charitable gift annuities are unrestricted irrevocable gifts under which the Society agrees in turn to pay a life annuity to the donor or designated beneficiary. The contributed funds and the attendant liabilities immediately become part of the Society’s general assets and liabilities, subject to the Society’s maintaining an actuarial reserve. The assets received are recorded at their fair values, and an annuity payment liability is recognized at the present value of the expected future cash flows. Of the amounts of $14,477 and $15,664 that were recorded as other investments as of August 31, 2016 and 2015, respectively, $971 and $1,030 represented amounts held in reserve for charitable gift annuities at August 31, 2016 and 2015, respectively.

6) Other assets:

Other assets consist of inventory of gift shop items and CDs which are valued at cost, on a first-in-first-out basis.

7) Property and equipment:

The Society’s property and equipment are stated at their original costs at the dates of acquisition, or, if contributed, at their fair values at the dates of donation. Minor costs of repairs and maintenance are expensed as incurred. The Society capitalizes items of property and equipment that have a cost of $5 or more and useful lives greater than one year. Depreciation is provided using the straight-line method over 3 to 35 years, the estimated useful lives of the related assets. Leasehold improvements are amortized over the remaining lease term, or the useful lives of the improvements, whichever is shorter.

The costs (or donated values) of musical instruments are capitalized and depreciated over their estimated useful lives, except for antique musical instruments, which are carried at cost of $7,476 and $5,051 in fiscal-years 2016 and 2015, respectively, and are not required to be depreciated.

7) Property and equipment: (continued)

Management evaluates the recoverability of the investment in long-lived assets on an on-going basis and recognizes any impairment in the year of determination. Long-lived assets were tested for impairment as of August 31, 2016 and 2015, respectively, and, in the opinion of management, there were no impairments. It is reasonably possible that relevant conditions could change in the near term and necessitate a change in management’s estimate of the recoverability of these assets.

8) Archival collection:

The Society maintains a collection of historic and culturally significant musical documents. In accordance with the collection policies commonly followed by museums, the cost or value of these collection items is not included in the accompanying statements of financial position. Each item is cataloged, preserved, and cared for, and activities verifying their existence and assessing their condition are performed continuously. Items purchased for the collection are recorded as expenses in the year in which the items are purchased. Proceeds from deaccessions are classified as unrestricted, except when donor restrictions apply.

9) Accrued vacation:

Accrued vacation is included as a liability in the accompanying statements of financial position and represents the Society’s obligation for the cost of unused vacation time payable under the supposition that all employees would leave the Society: this obligation is recalculated every year. At August 31, 2016 and 2015, this accrued vacation obligation was approximately $131 and $140, respectively, and was reported as part of accounts payable and accrued expenses in the accompanying statements of financial position.

10) Deferred revenue:

Deferred revenue from ticket sales arises from subscription sales and future special events, and is recognized as income when the related performances or special events occur.

11) Net assets:

i) Unrestricted:

Unrestricted net assets represent those resources that are not subject to donor restrictions and are available for current operations. The Society’s board-designated funds have been allocated by the Board of Directors to the board-designated endowment, the unrestricted earnings of which will be applied to future needs as determined by the Board of Directors.

ii) Temporarily restricted:

Temporarily restricted net assets represent those resources that are subject to the requirements of the New York Prudent Management of Institutional Funds Act (“NYPMIFA”) and the use of which has been restricted by donors or state law to specific purposes and/or the passage of time. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends, a purpose restriction is accomplished, or funds are appropriated through an action of the Board of Directors, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified as unrestricted net assets and reported in the accompanying statements of activities as “net assets released from restrictions.”
11) Net assets: (continued)

iii) Permanently restricted:

Permanently restricted net assets represent those resources the principal of which is originally restricted into perpetuity by its donor. The purposes for which the income and net capital appreciation arising from the underlying assets may be used depend on the wishes of those donors. Under the terms of NYPMIFA, those earnings are classified as temporarily restricted in the accompanying statements of activities, pending appropriation by the Board of Directors.

12) Revenue recognition:

i) Income from orchestra activities:

Revenue from concerts and tour sponsorships is recognized as income when the performance has occurred. Recording and broadcasting reimbursements are recognized as income when the payment has been made.

ii) Gifts, grants and bequests:

Gifts, grants and bequests made to the Society are recognized as revenue upon the receipt of cash or other assets, or of unconditional gift pledges. Contributions are recorded as either temporarily or permanently restricted if they are received with donor stipulations or time considerations as to their use. Conditional contributions are recorded when the conditions have been met and, if received in advance, are recognized in the statements of financial position as funds received in advance. The Society records bequest income at the time it has an established right to a bequest and the proceeds are measurable. Contributions to be received over periods longer than a single year are discounted at an interest rate commensurate with the risk involved.

13) Allowance for doubtful collections:

The Society periodically assesses the collectability of its contributions and receivables using management’s judgment of potential defaults, which considers factors such as prior collection history, the type of contribution, and the nature of fund-raising activity and provides allowances for anticipated losses, if any, when necessary.

14) Measure of operations:

The Society includes in its definition of operations all income and expenses relating to its orchestra and supporting activities. Investment income, including net realized and unrealized gains and losses earned greater than or less than the Society’s authorized spending limit, changes in the value of split-interest agreements, and pension-related changes other than periodic costs are recognized as part of non-operating activities.
NOTE 2 - INVESTMENTS

21) Subsequent events:

The Society considers all of the accounting treatments, and the related disclosures in the current fiscal-year’s financial statements, that may be required as the result of all events or transactions that occur after the fiscal year-end through November 29, 2016, the date the financial statements were available to be issued.

Other investments include the value of the property received in a life interest in real estate, amounts designated for a supplemental pension fund, charitable gift annuities and other general funds.

The Society’s Board of Directors has adopted a spending-rate policy whereby a predetermined amount of each fiscal-year’s investment assets is used to fund current operations. For fiscal-years 2016 and 2015, respectively, the spending-rate was calculated as 6.25% and 6.50% of the prior three-year, rolling-average, quarterly market value of investments. Unrestricted investment income also includes interest income earned on operating funds of $7 and $6, in fiscal-years 2016 and 2015, respectively.

ASC Topic 820, Fair Value Measurements and Disclosures, establishes a three-level valuation hierarchy of fair-value measurements. These valuation techniques are based upon observable and unobservable inputs. Observable inputs reflect market data obtained from independent sources, while unobservable inputs reflect market assumptions. These two types of inputs create the following fair-value hierarchy:

Level 1: Valuations are based on observable inputs that reflect quoted market prices in active markets for identical assets.

Level 2: Valuations are based on inputs other than quoted prices that are directly or indirectly observable at the reporting date.

Level 3: Valuations are based on unobservable inputs that reflect the management’s judgment about the assumptions market participants would use in pricing the asset. The fair values include significant management judgment.

The following schedule summarizes the investment returns (losses) and their classifications in the accompanying statements of activities for each fiscal year:

The following schedule summarizes the investment returns (losses) and their classifications in the accompanying statements of activities for each fiscal year:

In addition, ASC Topic 820 removes the requirement to categorize within the fair-value hierarchy all investments for which fair value is measured using NAV per share (or its equivalent unit) as a practical expedient. Accordingly, these investments are not categorized within the fair value hierarchy and certain related tables have been properly excluded from the notes to the accompanying financial statements.

Certain of the Society’s investments are valued using NAV per share (or its equivalent unit) as a practical expedient of fair value. The Society uses NAV per share (or its equivalent unit) to measure the fair values of the private equity securities, limited partnerships, and limited liability companies. The use of the practical expedient is applicable for investments which (i) do not have a readily determinable fair value and (ii) the financial statements of which were prepared by the respective investment managers, consistent with the measurement principles of an investment company or that have the attributes of an investment company.

The Society’s investments are subject to various risks, such as interest-rate, market, and credit risks. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investment securities, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in the values of those securities could occur in the near term and that such changes could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

The available market data is monitored to assess the appropriate classification of financial instruments within the fair-value hierarchy. Changes in economic conditions or valuation techniques may require the transfer of financial instruments from one level to another. In such instances, the transfer is reported at the beginning of the reporting period. For fiscal-years 2016 and 2015, there were no transfers among the fair-value hierarchy levels.

The following table summarizes the fair values of investments at each fiscal year-end, in accordance with the ASC Topic 820 valuation levels.

Total contributions receivable | $42,818   | $21,743    |

The Society reserved $265 and $171 of certain uncollectable contributions receivable as part of the Society's general allowance for doubtful accounts for fiscal-years 2016 and 2015, respectively.

[b] Other receivables:

At each fiscal year-end, other receivables consisted of amounts due to the Society from unrelated parties for exchange-type transactions. All amounts are due within one year, and, based on the Society's prior experience, are expected to be fully collected. Accordingly, no allowance for doubtful accounts has been established.

NOTE 4 - PROPERTY AND EQUIPMENT

NOTE 4 - PROPERTY AND EQUIPMENT (CONTINUED)

Depreciation and amortization of leasehold improvements, equipment and musical instruments amounted to $1,525 and $1,361 for fiscal-years 2016 and 2015, respectively. Depreciation for leasehold improvements for the David Geffen Hall renovations will begin once the new building is in use.

NOTE 5 - PENSION PLANS

The Society maintains two defined-benefit pension plans, one for members of the orchestra and one for office employees. The following table sets forth the plans' funded status and the amounts recognized in the Society's financial statements:

Weighted-average assumptions:
- Discount rate for benefit cost: 4.57% to 4.20%
- Discount rate for projected benefit obligation: 3.79% to 4.57%
- Expected return on plan assets: 8.00% to 8.00%
- Rate of compensation increase: N/A to 2.00%
- Benefit cost: $3,437 to $4,527

Employer contributions are stated as amounts paid during fiscal-years 2016 and 2015. These contributions may be applied to plan years other than the fiscal year in which it has been reported. To meet the minimum-funding requirements of the Internal Revenue Service, the Society’s funding policy is to contribute funds to a trust, as necessary, to provide for current service and for any unfunded, accrued benefit liabilities. To the extent that the funding requirement is fully satisfied by trust assets, a contribution to the trust may not be made in a particular year.

The plans’ investments will be made for the purpose of providing retirement reserves for the present and future benefit of participants of the plans. The assets will be invested with the care, skill and diligence a prudent person acting in this capacity would exercise, in order to comply with the objectives outlined herein, the Investment Advisors Act of 1940, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, and all other governing statutes.
The primary objective of the plans' trustees is to provide a balance among capital appreciation, preservation of capital, and the production of current income. The plans' trustees recognize that risk (i.e., the uncertainty of future events), volatility (i.e., the potential for variability of asset values), and the possibility of loss in purchasing power (due to inflation) are present to some degree in all types of investment vehicles. While high levels of risk are to be avoided, the assumption of risk is warranted in order to allow the investment manager the opportunity to achieve satisfactory long-term results consistent with the objectives of the plans.

The trustees of the plans have established the following asset-allocation strategy:

The estimated amount of the Society's contribution for fiscal-year 2016 is $3,400 for the Orchestra Plan and $1,600 for the Office Plan. These estimates reflect the funding requirements promulgated by the Internal Revenue Service.

The following table illustrates the expected benefit payments over future fiscal years:

</tbody>

The accrued expected postretirement benefit cost recognized in the accompanying statements of financial position for the Orchestra Plan and Office Plan for fiscal-year 2016 was $4,048 and $967, respectively. The accrued benefit cost recognized in the accompanying statements of financial position for the Orchestra Plan and Office Plan for fiscal-year 2015 was $3,680 and $911, respectively.

For measurement purposes, a 4.25% annual rate of increase in the per capita cost of covered benefits was assumed for both fiscal-years 2016 and 2015, respectively.

A one percentage-point increase in the assumed healthcare cost-trend for each fiscal year would have resulted in an increase in the accumulated postretirement benefit obligation as of August 31, 2016 of $664 and an increase in the aggregate cost components of net period postretirement benefit costs of $56 for fiscal-year 2016.

There were no employer or employee contributions to the Plans in either fiscal-year 2016 or 2015.

NOTE 7 - SELF-INSURANCE PLAN RESERVE
The Society provides health insurance benefits to all of its employees through a partially self-funded plan. The plan is administered by a third party. The Society self-funds the cost of the program up to specified stop-loss insurance limits. Coverage during the policy period limits the maximum individual and aggregate losses. Self-insurance costs are accrued based upon the aggregate of the liability for reported claims and an estimated liability for claims incurred but not reported. The reserve was approximately $675 and $177 at August 31, 2016 and 2015, respectively, and is included in accounts payable and accrued liabilities.

NOTE 8 - DEFICIT IN UNRESTRICTED NET ASSETS
The deficit in unrestricted net assets is due largely to the Society’s accumulated pension and postretirement benefit obligations. Management believes the Society will have sufficient resources to meet these obligations.

NOTE 9 - TEMPORARILY RESTRICTED NET ASSETS
At each fiscal year-end, temporarily restricted net assets consisted of the following:

Endowment-related temporarily restricted net assets released from restrictions were $14,486 and $17,234 for fiscal-years 2016 and 2015, respectively (Note 10).

NOTE 10 - ENDOWMENT FUNDS
[a] The endowments:
The Society’s endowment is composed of 110 individual funds established for a variety of purposes, consisting of both funds directed by donors to be permanently restricted and funds designated by the Board of Directors as unrestricted quasi-endowment.

[b] Return objectives and risk parameters:
The Board of Directors has adopted investment and spending policies for the Society’s endowment assets that seek to provide a predictable stream of funding to programs supported by its endowment, and maintain purchasing power of the endowment over time.

[c] Strategies employed for achieving objectives:
To satisfy its long-term rate-of-return objectives, the Society relies on a total-return strategy in which investment returns are achieved through both capital appreciation (realized and unrealized) and current yield (interest and dividends). The Society targets a diversified asset allocation within prudent risk constraints.
The Society had a policy of appropriating an annual distribution of 6.25% and 6.50%, for fiscal-years 2016 and 2015, respectively, of its endowment funds’ average fair value over the prior 12 quarters, through March 31 of the year preceding the fiscal year in which the distribution is planned. In establishing this policy, management considered the long-term expected return on the endowment assets. Accordingly, over the long term, management expects the current spending policy to maintain the purchasing power of the endowment assets held in perpetuity or for a specified term, as well as to provide additional real growth through new gifts and investment returns.

Notes to Financial Statements
August 31, 2016 and 2015
(amounts in thousands)

g) Funds with deficiencies:
Due to unfavorable market fluctuations, from time to time the fair value of assets associated with individual donor-restricted endowment funds may decline below the historic dollar value of the donor’s original, permanently restricted contribution (i.e., “underwater” funds). Under the terms of NYPMIFA, the Society has no responsibility to restore such decreases in value.

NOTE 11 - DONATED SERVICES
For recognition of donated services in the Society’s financial statements, such services must (i) create or enhance non-financial assets, (ii) require specialized skills, (iii) be performed by individuals possessing those skills, and (iv) typically need to be acquired if not provided by donation. Donated services are recorded as support at their estimated fair value at the dates of donation and are reported as unrestricted support unless the donor has restricted the services to a specific purpose. The fair value of contributed legal and consulting services was approximately $93 and $47 for fiscal-years 2016 and 2015, respectively.

NOTE 12 - CONCENTRATIONS OF CREDIT RISK
Financial instruments that potentially subject the Society to concentrations of credit risk consist principally of cash that is deposited in financial institutions in amounts which, from time to time, may exceed federal insurance limits.
However, management believes that the Society does not face a significant risk of loss on these accounts that would result from failures of these financial institutions.

NOTE 13 - COMMITMENTS AND CONTINGENCIES
[a] Lease:
The Society is the principal tenant of David Geffen Hall under a long-term lease agreement between the Society and Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts, Inc., which was renewed for 25 years, effective July 1, 2014. The Society’s rent is determined by established rental rates for its use of the concert hall, plus or minus its proportionate share of the operating gain or loss. The expense incurred under this agreement amounted to approximately $6,295 and $5,409 in fiscal-years 2016 and 2015, respectively.

NOTE 14 - COMPARISON TO INTERNAL OPERATING MEASURE
For fiscal-years 2016 and 2015, the unrestricted deficiency of operating income over operating expenses, as reported in the accompanying statements of activities, differs from the operating measures used for internal-reporting purposes for several reasons, including the alternative treatment of certain income and expense items.
A reconciliation of these two measurement processes is as follows:
